To whom it may concern:

TENACTA Group S.p.A. has a branch office in Moscow, Russia. The branch office had a five year registration with the Russian tax authorities and the registration needed to be prolonged.

The team at 1C-WiseAdvice offered us to run the legal project to receive an indefinite registration for our branch office.

Vitaly Kodev, the head lawyer at 1C-WiseAdvice ran the project.

The documents on our side understandably were in Italian. Vitaly and Hans Kuepper, Director International Business, and I worked to prepare the right documents here in Italy, bringing them into the official format needed by the Russian tax authorities and then the team in Moscow managing the official translation process.

As the document content and the document format for the Russian tax authority were quite challenging there was a big amount back and forth by phone and email between us to have everything prepared perfectly. Perfectly, as any inconsistency in the documents could result in a decline of the prolongation of the registration by the tax authorities and thus a stop of our business activity in Russia.

In the process the team of 1C-WiseAdvice advised us and found ways to manage all aspects of the new documents preparation process.

After the submission of the full set of documents, Vitaly Kodev received, during a personal visit to the tax inspector, one more critical question about the mother company and its naming history. Together we also addressed and then solved this issue.

I like to thank the 1C-WiseAdvice team for guiding us successfully through this complicated process, addressing the issues in time and with a high professionalism and competence succeeding to receive an indefinite registration for our Russian branch office.
